THE WRITING ON THE WALL

Walls offer us protection from the elements. Yet, if we are surrounded by too many, we feel trapped. North Andover High has few walls. So, what do we have for protection? A great King of Sparta, when asked why Sparta had no walls, pointed to his people and declared, "These are the Spartan walls." So it is within our school. The student body and faculty together constitute our walls. The students are the stones, somewhat unrefined at first, but ready to be cut. The faculty are the masons who shape the stones, and the administration is the mortar which secures the stones and keeps them in line.

As to having no barriers between classrooms, our open concept prevents us from feeling trapped and forces us to confront challenges. Without walls, we have no corners. Without corners we have no crises, only open crossroads that converge on promise and the possibility of every direction.

over the wall

After what seems like an eternity of school days, the countdown, for seniors, begins to mean something. Each of us is trying desperately to grasp a memory or two as we find ourselves finally approaching the top of the wall. Walking through the all-too-familiar doors of NAHS is different for a dominant, omniscient, omnipotent senior. Yet with coveted privileges and sophistication, there comes a rushed realization — the responsibility of setting standards, making life-affecting decisions, and sincerely exemplifying pride in being a Knight. Seniors simply can't help being the paragons of superiority; it would destroy the natural order of things. These experiences are so special because they are all that remain of four long, well, maybe not-so-long years.

The climax! June 5, 1987: Garbed in gowns of black and red, standing united yet prepared to go our separate ways . . . pride, good-byes, smiles through tears. For you is it a person, a memory, or simply a feeling? You will know why you were here.

Faculty

the wall of wisdom

Sometimes we students take the faculty for granted by begging for last-minute recommendations or hasseling them about a grade. Put yourself in their shoes. What do their days consist of? Patrolling the cafeterias, listening to us abuse the word "wicked" as they stroll down the hallways, or maybe watching some belligerents snap pink wads of gum from the back of the room while they try to lecture. Fortunately, that's only one aspect of their job. If it wasn't for some harried teacher who helped you over the big walls of yesteryear, you wouldn't be reading this. The faculty are not gluttons for punishment or mental anguish; they are people who care. They offer extra help when a definite F looms ahead. They coach our teams and advise our clubs. Every member of this faculty, in one way or another, helps us over the walls we face now and prepares us for the ones yet to come.

Underclassmen

scaling the wall

High school. Remember how cool it sounded in eighth grade? So now we're freshmen and it's not as great as we thought it would be. Ninth grade presents new challenges like surviving finals or completing term papers that require more than just copying a page of an encyclopedia. Just the same, facing these situations teaches us how to climb and with every small victory, we ascend with more certainty. Time passes quickly, and sooner than we realize, we are sophomores. With a year of experience tucked under our belts, scaling becomes much easier with the footholds we have found in our friends and the activities we take part in. But all too quickly, our status as sophomores departs. So here we are, juniors. We have almost made it over the wall, although the greatest obstacles are found but a few inches from the top. For instance, we face taking the SATs, planning for college, or finally applying for a real job. Even so, this year we have the option of going to the prom and now we're jingling car keys. Making it over the wall isn't easy, but would you rather make the climb with anyone else?

Activities

stepping stones

Scaling the wall at NAHS requires more than an academic effort. Activities provide footholes for balance when the journey over the wall becomes tiresome and frustrating.

They are an outlet for everyone's creative niche. Literary talents abound in the members of the Squire and Bourbon Red. Musicians in the band and chorus share their talents for unexpected delights. Competitive types can join the speech, math, or chess teams. The annual pep rally owes itself to devoted, enthusiastic groups. Some clubs, such as the Student Council, SADD, and NHS, support others in climbing the wall. The traditions at NAHS are dependent upon personal commitments of time and effort.

What keeps us kids here after the final bell? It's vaguely conceivable that dedication is promoted by that inescapable box on college applications . . . "Activities". But ultimately, everyone knows that activities flourish at North Andover High School because, simply enough, they make people happy.

Student Council

During Mr. Rozzi's second year as advisor, the Student Council expanded its members in an effort to better represent the student body as a whole. Also, the council sponsored several dances, held two successful food drives, sold carnations on Valentine's Day, and served as guides for the Parent/Teacher Conferences, under the direction of president Mike Gordon, Vice-President Kimmy Riordan, Secretary Kolby Barbera, and Treasurer Sam Conte. One other glowing achievement on the group's record is its organization of the unprecedented Leadership Conference.

AFS Brings World To N.A.H.S.

Forget about bleak and boring jaunts to Egyptian pyramids and tropical rain forests — this year, AFS reaped their fair share of exotica when they took New York by storm under the brave torch of adventurous President Liza Palmer and Vice President Karen Fulks. AFS also played gracious host to exchange student Penelope Phan-Lung and made sure the vivacious Peruvian got only the best impression of our humble hamlet. And what with their cultural barrier — smashing efforts, the AFS made some pretty fine impressions themselves.

From complete coverage of the smoking area shut down to a controversial editorial on the "student council plutocracy" to a retrospective look at R.E.M.'s landmark November concert, the Squire captured the best of the 1986-1987 school year between its pages. Advisor Mr. Gregoire, co-editors Tim Murphy, Tracy Nicolosi and Mary Beth Katis and key writers like Elaine Fann, Bobby Bryan, and Alyssa Marchese worked like sixty all year, but their greatest triumph is yet to come — the senior issue's class prophecy. Brace yourselves!

Rhyme and Reason

A rich array of literary talent, bold pop-art graphics and singularly enthusiastic bunch of workers marked the publication of the 1986-87 Bourbon Red. Advisor Mrs. Hannum and senior editors like Tim Murphy, Jennifer Meldrum, and Mi Seong Kim all agreed on the perfect words to describe the North Andover High School Literary Magazine 1986-87 style — "Simply Delightful." From Eric Shannon's unprecedented Warholism cartoon cover to the gripping poetry and prose of NAHS best young amateurs to some dramatic overall changes in style and structure, the Bourbon Red undoubtedly turned more than a few heads — as well as raised a few eyebrows. But for Mrs. Hannum and her hard-working highbrows, it was a matter of rhyme and reason.

Proving the Power of the Spoken Word

The speech team experienced a renaissance of overwhelming proportions during the 1986-87 year. Mrs. Muriel Brown picked up gloriously where coach Ed Rudd left off and from there, the team bounced back with vengeance. Not only did members like Marybeth and Eileen Katis, Timothy S. Murphy, Deb and Diane Brown, Lucinda Ferguson and Gina Rossetti deliver arresting individual performances, but the team as a whole swept statewide tournaments with a chilling group presentation of Arthur Miller's The Crucible. They made a habit out of talking their way to triumph.

Coaches Arthur Forgetta and Thomas McGowan could not help but be pleased with the performance of the 1986-87 Math team. This team may have been a little less talented than past years, but they worked hard to get the most out of their abilities. Co-captains Wendy Sue Appleton and Elaine Fann provided consistent leadership by setting a dedicated hard-working example. Seniors Jeffrey Enright, John McElhenny, Dave Herrmann, and Mike Sullivan led the team this year while juniors Clement Chun and Mehool Patel provide high hopes for the future.

Concerned Teens Flock to S.A.D.D.

They never set out to work miracles, but the admonitory jingle of a complimentary key chain in a tuxedo pocket probably kept more than one prom-time celebrant from making the potentially fatal mistake of drinking and driving. Credit those key chains, as well as a host of other anti-D & D campaigns, to the North Andover chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving. President Jen Shea, Vice-President Jen Anderson, Secretary Karen Stearns and Treasurer Cheryl Ventura — as well as a 100-plus battalion of hard working members — lobbied hard to draw a strong line between the keg and the wheel. And to save a whole lot of lives.

Cabaret Night

The joke is on comedian Greg Christo.

"Come to the Cabaret"! Eileen Katis insists.

In top hat, tails, and spangles, Liza Minelli belted it best — when all's said and done, "life is a Cabaret." Miss Graham's chorus and Mr. Selima's band proved as much. With glittering aplomb, they staged their 4th Annual Cabaret Night. The atmosphere was oh-so intimately 1930's Paris, but the energy was unquestionably electric. The lights dimmed, the audience ate, drank and made merry and the performers offered everything from classic torch songs to new wave dance sequences to funkyed-up call-and-response rapping, Graham, Selima and the kids had rhythm, they had music, and had Cabaret. Who could ask for anything more?

The Year Preserved

Towards the end of your year, it comes to you in factory-wrapped plastic. You cart it to classes for the three weeks before school ends and gather in it the sentiments of everyone from your soul-mate to the kid you sat next to in study.

You pull it out of the closet and pore over the old names and faces it contains time after time for the rest of your life. It's your yearbook. And you can thank advisor Miss Bryan, Editors Kelly Tobin and Elaine Fann, and members like Racquel Borey, Kathryn Sollie, David Herrmann, Lisa Cimmino and Timothy Murphy for dedicating a sizable portion of their school year to make the 1987 Knight the best one ever. Endless hours of toil and trouble have paid off for us all in a lifetime of memories preserved.

They Sing the Body Electric

We cried when we heard them Sing the Body Electric. We held our breath when they sang Hallelujah. We snapped our fingers when they sang about the sunny side of the street. Dynamic director Miss Beth Graham and Eric Swenson (pres.), Sandro Veras (vice pres.) and Bohemian secretary Alyssa Marchese led the Chorus and Concert Choir through a glorious year where they not only captured the hearts of the student body, but received the adulation of the entire community. "SPARKLE" was their catch word for every performance . . . and sparkle they did.

Band Strikes Up a Merry Tune

They looked smart in their spanking new red and black uniforms. They made halftime at the football game something to stick around for. They stormed the streets of Boston and conferred a strong dose of hometown harmony on their parades. They mastered Mozart and rocked out to the power pop of Bon Jovi. But best of all, they grew. And grew and grew and grew. And that's something that conductor Mr. Walter Selima, drum major Kelli Steer and color guard captain Colleen Walsh have a lot to smile about. So play on, kids, because we're all ears.

National Honor Society

The members of the national Honor Society commit their time to community service. Events of this very productive year were conducted by officers Jeff Enright (pres.), Kristin Giantris (vice pres.), Kelly Tobin (sec.-treas.), and contributing members. The most successful event of the year was the blood drive, yielding 55 donated pints. A phoneathon was sponsored for the Heart Association. Funds for scholarships became available through bake sales. Dedicated scholars also shared the wealth of knowledge during tutorial sessions.

Pep Rally

A fifties theme was chosen to bring the Knights to another victory this year. Sue Curley pulled the almost non-existent pep rally together with help from the senior class and advisor Mrs. Osgood. The script was written by Tim Murphy, and Christina Gabriel and Karen Stearns assisted in choreography. Parents of the school community helped to make the show a reality. The participants were right to be proud of their dynamic effort and volunteer hours; this pride was reflected by the reactions of a delighted audience.

Where great whales come sailing by,

Sail and sail,
with unshut eye
Round the world
forever and aye.

Last May Captain Kappotis chartered a boat off the coast of Gloucester. Finback whales surfaced in several locations. Unfortunately, their more playful counterparts, the humpbacks, were no where in sight. Eventually the sun's rays broke through overcast skies and the upper-deck became the place to be.

Field Day

Field day provides a wealth of opportunities. Want to catch the first rays of summer? This is it! Want to contribute to the honor of your class without having to attend weekly meetings? Go for it! Well, here's your chance. Just who seizes the opportunities is another matter. On field day, 1986, the sophomores did — and ran away with first place. The juniors continued their tradition of finishing last. Opportunity knocked — and the proverbial door remained unanswered.

Cast captured in “Mousetrap”

Director Patricia Maloney-Brown opted to do an Agatha Christie murder mystery instead of a musical as in previous years. Performed by the North Andover High School Drama Club, the cast consisted of eight extremely different people who took their final bows as a close family unit. After three months of long, tedious practice and joyous memories, the show sparkled with love and great pride.

Senior Class Advisors showed us the way

No one ever forced them into it. In fact, it's tough enough just to find a few tangible reasons that might have even persuaded them into it — there was no promise of glittering glory or enormous sums of money. If someone remembered, then maybe they'd receive a little something from the Methuen Mall on Awards Day — potholders or some decent cologne.

But despite the diminishing returns, they were still there for us. They were there for us through countless Friday night dances, fundraisers and one particularly time-consuming senior prom. They basked in the reflected glow of our class during the good times and were there to shoulder the burden when things went wrong. They assumed the responsibility of representing a class just as well-known for its friendliness as its waywardness. Invariably, they were there to fall back on.

They are Mr. Gerald Sanford and Mrs. Susan McGregor. Somehow or other, they found time out from teaching Sons and Lovers and personal typing, respectively, to show us the way — indulgent and prudent at the same time. They began toting the sometimes weary load for us when we were freshmen and on June 5, 1987, they'll share with us the honor and the sadness of setting it down. But for walking by our side these four years past — we thank them.

Mr. Gerald Sanford

Mrs. Susan McGregor

Sports

up against the wall

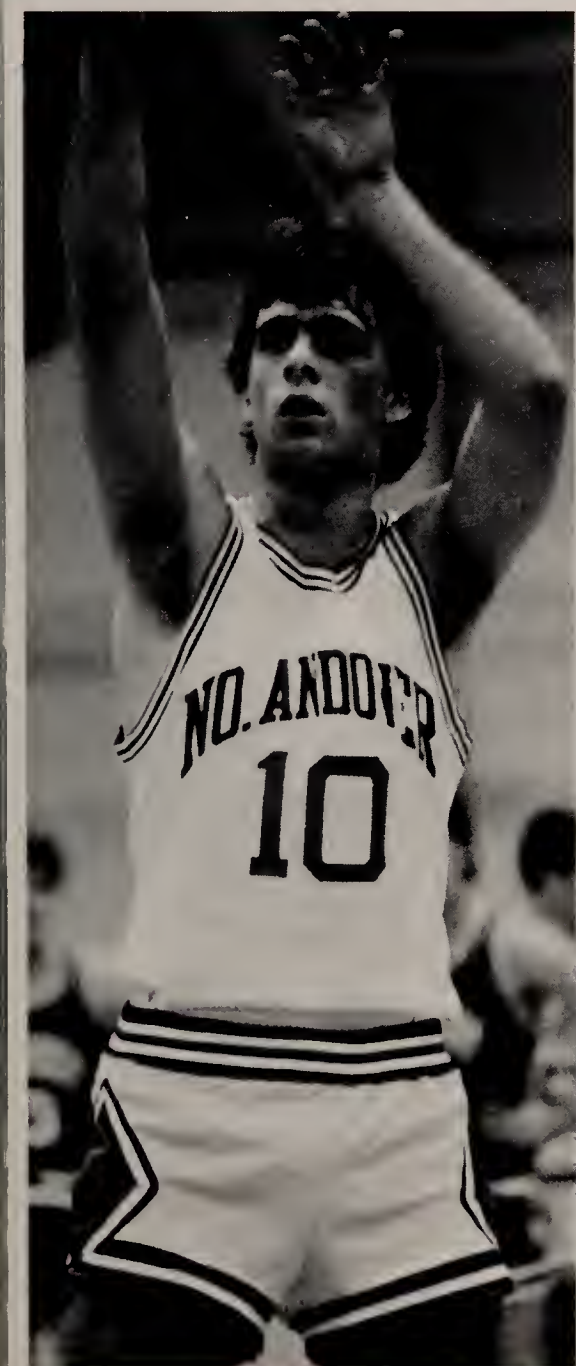

There are forty teams representing sixteen different sports at NAHS. How important are they? Just looking at the trophy-crammed showcase should tell you. If that's not enough, just step into the field house and you'll be dwarfed by the scarlet hue of championship banners.

The athletics at North Andover represent pride and dedication.

Those who play fall sports end their summer vacations a week early. The winter athletics spend countless hours practicing in a steamy gym or on an icy slope, or even rising before dawn to get more ice time. By spring, those who stick it out for just one more season throwing, hitting, running, and jumping have a lot to be proud of.

What really makes the teams at

NA so great? It's not the Division II North finalist banners, or those nifty Cape Ann Championship jackets, or even the Greater Lawrence tournament ballgame, but something less material. It is an undefinable emotion — school pride. That is the cement that holds up the wall.

Off the Wall . . .

Boys' Soccer

The Scarlet Knight soccer team had another outstanding season in 1986. After overcoming a great deal of early season adversity, tri-captains Mike Sullivan, Steve Nugent, and Frank Kirkpatrick led the team with skill and spirit to its best showing ever in the post season tournament. After finishing the season in second place in the league, the Knights went on to the semi-finals of the state tournament, the farthest ever for coach Nunzio DiMarca's team. Other milestones reached by the squad include the first ever season where the offense scored over 100 goals as they had 102 for the year. The defense was anchored by senior fullback Jeff Enright and senior goalie Bill Mcquire. Matt Della Croce, Mike Redman and Bobby Bryan also did a fine job controlling the midfield. A large nucleus of returning juniors and sophomores provides a bright future for the team.

The boys' J.V. soccer team kicked, headed and pummelled their way to a rousingly victorious season this fall, with a final record of 9-0-3. The singularly good-natured attitude of Coach Desmond, as well as co-captains Mark Satenstien, Jason Delmonico, Joel Henry and Bob Lyons ensured that not only did the boys fare successfully — but that they had a barrelful of fun, too! Future seasons can only promise further success for these scrappy sportsmen.

Girls Varsity Soccer

The Girls' Varsity Soccer Team had an excellent season with a record of 11-5-3. The Knight's offense was led by Candice Kirkiles, Anne Marie Lyons, and Tina Kehrig. The defensive players were Maura O'Connell, Pam Picard, Lori Takesian, and two of the tri-captains, Amy Gross and Peg Lynch. Lastly, credit should go to goalie tri-captain Robin Townley for saving the team from many defeats.

Varsity Field Hockey

This year the Varsity Field Hockey team surprised North Andover High School by winning its first game in over four years against North Reading 4-0. Although the North Reading victory was followed by a succession of losses, the team rallied for a win upsetting a Cape Ann powerhouse, Ipswich 1-0.

Leading the team in spirit and skill were co-captains Erin McLaughlin and All-Star Kathy Cavanaugh. The Knights defense was extremely strong, letting up few goals this season. Kara Dowe and Julie Papalia helped shut out North Reading and Ipswich, and held the Cape Ann League champs, Amesbury, to one goal.

Boys' Varsity Basketball

The perennial powerhouse of Cape Ann League basketball extended its reign this year with a share of the league championship and an 18-2 regular season record, including big wins over Division 1 power Central Catholic and league rival Newburyport. The boys from N.A. utilized Coach McVeigh's trademark — tenacious man-to-man defense and a new fast-break-offense to record another successful season. Defensively, captains Sean Murphy and Mike Gordon led the way, while Sean Kenneally and Matt Strobel pounded the boards all season for the Knights. Leading scorer Winn Matthews and former all-leaguer Tony Moore provided much of the scoring punch against those infamous Cape Ann League two-three zones.

Wrestling

Tradition — it abounds from North Andover wrestling. The team is a remarkable 159-5-2, with three state and two New England championships in the last decade. After winning the league, sectional, state, and commonwealth cup championships, and a third place in New England last year, the team faced a rebuilding season. Strong tradition prevailed. Led by junior captains Matt Abel and Doug Dreffer, the team repeated as league champs. Outstanding performers were Scott Determan, Joel Henry, Bill Sullivan, and Jeff Roche. With no seniors on varsity, the team looks forward to another outstanding season next year.

Introducing the Swim Team!

No one can accuse North Andover High School sportsmen of being mere landlubbers anymore. NA's first-ever swim team splashed into the forefront of the local sports scene with coaches Rick Lombard and Nancy Hibberd and featured fish Margaret Cunningham, Laura Borgesi, Toni Frulla and Terri Tuttle. All the aquatic preparation paid off when the team promptly sank old pros at Lexington. So now that they've taken the initial dive, everything promises to go swimmingly from here on in.

Boys Track

The Track Team had a very impressive showing this spring, ending the season at 4-5. The Team performed well with three of its losses handed to them in the last event of the meet. Rick Fredette, Todd Whitely, and B.J. Ferris were all consistent performers. Next year the team looks to Len Annaloro, Steve Nugent, and Clem Chung for improving its record.

Girls Track

The Girls Track team finished 5-4 in 1986 in the CAL with other strong performances at Wilmington Invitational and the And-over Boosters meet. Times and distances were always improving as intensity and drive continued to be strong. The long-distance runners were led by seniors Kelly Gurry and Erin McLaughlin. Christy Carlson led the sweep in throwing events. Tri-captains for 1987 are top discus thrower, Kathy Cavanaugh, who captured first place in many meets, Anne Lynch who had outstanding achievements in sprinting events, and Kim Riordan. The future looks bright as varsity letter winners such as Michele Gilbert, Kendra Lippmann, Stacy Holmes, and Amy Keleher return for the next season.

First Row: Coach Lawlor, Jen Bent, Sue Pelletier, Jen Sobel, Kelly Peck, Ellen Balmas, Lynn McDonald, Gini Heiss, Coach Listernick. Second Row: Tammy Petronio, Amy Kelleher, Erin McLaughlin, Christy Carlson, Kelly McGuire, Kim Riordan, Maura O'Connell, Anne Lynch, Kathy Murphy. Third Row: Susan Greenwood, Julie Papalia, Kathy Cavanaugh, Kelly Gurry, Kendra Lippmann, C.J. Bernal, Sonya Salois, Julie Fragala. Fourth Row: Michelle Gilbert, Claire Fitzpatrick, Lori Noonan, Sharyn Nugent, Amy Kennicker, Jen Nugent, Lisa Houde, Stacy D'Alessandro. Fifth Row: Jacqueline Gallagher, Susan Kingsley, Lisa Donadt, Chrissy Foss, Dawn Benson, Cindy Crowe, Stacy Holmes, Kim Trask. Way back when, our staff consisted of three people who knew the ins-and-outs of yearbook production, or at least who thought they did. Miss Janet Bryan, as advisor, reshaped our conceptions of ideal layouts, photographs, key phrases, and more. We hope that our endeavors, last minute as they were, reflect her expertise.

Elaine, what would we have done without your fancy filing technique, or likewise, without Kathryn's last story? The final late night session enlightened select members of the staff, who have come to know the true meaning of "yearbook." This I dedicate to them: The cinnamon roll refused to jump with the chair that happily regurgitated the eyelash!
